Collection of Dolls Displays Styles From Eve to Miss 1921

Evolution of the dress of the woman of 1921 was illustrated in a collection of nearly 200 dolls, garbed in costumes from Eve to the "Merrie Vamp" of this year of grace, the property of Mrs. Charles S. Wright of Pittsfield, Mass., shown at the Women's City Club, in Jackson place, last night.

Ranging from the somewhat abbreviated costume of the female resident of the Garden of Eden, which is pictured as an attractive bit of primitive dress, the exhibition depicts costumes of every period through medieval times down through the ornate dresses of the French court of the Louis and the showy costumes of our great grandmothers to the present day.

To make the exhibit more realistic members of the committee in charge last night wore costumes patterned after those of some of the dolls. Mrs. Wright, the owner of the collection, appeared in a French costume of 1775; Mrs. G. W. Johnston appeared as Jane Austin, in an English costume at the beginning of the nineteenth century; Mrs. Robert Nelson appeared as the Honorable Mrs. Hallet of the Gainsborough period; Miss Alice Heaven, in a Goya Spanish costume of 1760; Miss Ethel Babb, Miss Myrtle Bunn and Miss Karoline Klager, appeared in costumes of different periods.

Full Skirt Predominant. The exhibition illustrated the predominance of the full skirt of the days of sixty years ago. A large proportion of the costumes showed evidence of the full skirt. Relatively few had the short, narrow skirts of the present day.

Elaborately gownned ladies of the French court of the Louis vied with stately English ladies in their crinkly silks and satins, the latter appearing to look with disapproval on the fastidious exquisites of the French. The fashion in the days before the revolution.

Some of the most interesting exhibits were those of the character costumes. There were costumes of the American colored woman in her calico and red headscarf; a Scotch fisherwoman from the Firth of Forth; and several dolls from Poland, bearing around their necks a medallion with the name of Helen Padewski, wife of the Polish pianist. The dolls were sold for the relief of Poland.

Another set was a complete group of the famous Nuremberg Band representing the German street singers in full costume.

America Well Represented. Eight waxen-faced dolls represented the transformation in American styles, beginning with the street gown of 1850. In this display was an antique of 1869, ball gowns of 1880 and spring wear of 1889, practically all of these costumes showing the full skirt.

Europe was well represented, the European exhibit comprising the bulk of the collection, while from a mantel at one side of the room at the City Club a group of Chinese dolls peered forth from under their peculiar round concave hats.

Perhaps the most ornate dresses in the whole beautifully made collection were those representing costumes worn by the French ladies of the latter half of the eighteenth century. In this collection appear representations of the gowns of Marie Antoinette, Caroline, sister of Napoleon, and Josephine, the wife of Napoleon. From an earlier period were copied costumes of Queen Claudia of France and Jane Seymour, wife of Henry VIII of England.

Two dolls were two dolls, owned by Frances Wardall McAllister of Philadelphia.

MERCHANTS FAVOR NEW TAX ON SALES

Association to Discuss Repeal of Profits Levy at Meeting Thursday.

Replacement of the excess profits tax with an equitable sales tax is favored by Philip King, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, and the matter will be given consideration at a meeting of the board of governors of the association to be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Many other matters covering needed legislation will be discussed at this meeting, preparatory to laying the needs of the city before the coming special session of Congress.

Chance to Develop. "Washington never had a better opportunity for the development of trade than it has right now," said Mr. King. Expansion of business is actually held in leash through the lack of elements to house and care for it.

"It is most regrettable that the housing conditions are such as to retard even normal growth, and certainly the housing situation is unresponsive to the unusual development that the National Capital is experiencing and furthermore anti-inflationary."

"In some directions we need a revolution of law, and in others an amendment to existing law that is acting as a deterrent to progress."

"The problem of taxation is a serious one, and demands the immediate consideration of the business men and the public at large."

"Taxes in some of its forms has become a burden to the consumer, and it is seriously affecting the body politic."

Protests Sales Tax. "I am a firm believer in the equity of a sales tax as a substitute for the excess profits tax, providing the sales tax runs from the source to the consumer."

The payment of taxes should be a pleasure, because the revenue goes to meet the expenses of this great government, and of our glorious city. It will affect the balance of the country in the same manner as it does the National Capital.

"I am quite confident, too, that when a pruning knife is put into use the reclassifiers will find that very nearly all of the present employees are quite essential to efficient administration."

Deaths Reported. The following deaths have been reported to the health department in the last twenty-four hours:

Evelyn LeRue, 26, Emergency Hospital; Kate F. Schneider, 50, St. Elizabeth's Hospital; Morris Murray, 63, 701 Newton street; Mary P. Atwood, 65, 314 East Capitol street; Robert Burns, 36, 104 21st street; Irving W. Thompson, 45, 3737 Joyous street; William H. Pitter, 51, 424 3d street southwest; Clara Silverman, 49, 1511 Park road; Morris Stedley, 27, Washington Asylum Hospital; Annie E. Gant, 63, 337 H street southwest; George Maxwell, 78, 29 O street southwest; William H. Pitter, 51, 424 3d street southwest; John Owens, 72, 1016 1st street southwest; Mollie L. Lewis, 40, Washington Asylum Hospital.

AWARDED SERVICE MEDAL. Lieut. Col. John W. Kilbreth, field artillery, has been awarded the distinguished service medal for exceptionally meritorious service as director of the department of firing School of Fire for Field Artillery, Fort Sill, Okla., in the early part of the world war.

GIVES $750 FOR SCIENCE. The Carnegie Institution of Washington has appropriated $750 for the support of the work of Dr. S. J. Holmes, professor of zoology in the University of California, on the factors of the evolution in man.

Maryland Inventor Gives U.S. Explosive Surpassing TNT

BALTIMORE, Md., April 2.—An explosive claimed to be more powerful than TNT, and invented by a resident of Maryland, is in process of manufacture in a semi-commercial way, in an old mill building not far distant from the Bowie race tracks. The inventor is J. Madison Brown.

Near the old mill is a number of sheds built by the government to house the explosives for the production of this explosive for Army use. Since the close of the war the operation of this plant has been discontinued.

VOCATIONS FOR WOMEN TOPIC AT CONFERENCE

Miss Theodora Butcher to Address Meeting Called by Y. W. C. A. Business Department.

"Vocations Open for Women" is the subject to be discussed by Miss Theodora Butcher at the first session of the two-day special conference for women, under the auspices of the business women's department of the Young Women's Christian Association of the District.

Miss Butcher's talk is expected to be one of the features of the program. In 1918 and 1919 she served as senior examiner in the United States employment service, being in charge of the placement of professional women for the Philadelphia district. She next held the research fellowship of the bureau of occupational training for women for the study and investigation of employment exchanges in Great Britain and now is serving as assistant director of the Philadelphia Y. W. C. A.

Miss Mildred J. Bartholow will preside over the first session, which is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. Tuesday, at the administration building, 1333 F street northwest. Dr. Ada E. Thomas, of the Philadelphia district, will be the guest speaker. The Business Women's Association will be in charge of the conference.

IN MEMORIAM.

BANKS. In sad but loving remembrance of our dear brother, JOHN THOMAS BANKS, who died eleven years ago today, April 3, 1910.

The month of April once more is here. To us the saddest of the year. Because eleven years ago today our brother, JOHN THOMAS BANKS, died. He sleeps in perfect peace. His memory will always keep.

BY HIS BROTHERS, STEPHEN, SCOTT, AND DAN BANKS.

BIGGS. A tribute of devotion to our mother, ALICE L. BIGGS, who departed this life April 3, 1919.

Today recalls the memory of a loved one laid to rest. And those who loved her best. Are those who loved her best.

HER SON, L. M. BIGGS.

Whose love we can equal the love of a mother? Whose devotion so loyal and true? Whose faith so strong and true? Whose love so pure and true?

Who suffers so much with such joy for another? Who suffers so much with such joy for another? Who suffers so much with such joy for another? Who suffers so much with such joy for another?

Who will with delight the friendship of others? Who will with delight the friendship of others? Who will with delight the friendship of others? Who will with delight the friendship of others?

Who will in love of a sweetheart you've won? Who will in love of a sweetheart you've won? Who will in love of a sweetheart you've won? Who will in love of a sweetheart you've won?

Who will where do you find a friendship like mother's? Who will where do you find a friendship like mother's? Who will where do you find a friendship like mother's? Who will where do you find a friendship like mother's?

Unbroken until death calls and life's work is done? Unbroken until death calls and life's work is done? Unbroken until death calls and life's work is done? Unbroken until death calls and life's work is done?

Don't leave mother when she is old and frail? Don't leave mother when she is old and frail? Don't leave mother when she is old and frail? Don't leave mother when she is old and frail?

Don't say that she is a bother and only in the way? Don't say that she is a bother and only in the way? Don't say that she is a bother and only in the way? Don't say that she is a bother and only in the way?

Don't be so busy and care only in the way? Don't be so busy and care only in the way? Don't be so busy and care only in the way? Don't be so busy and care only in the way?

She may be old and feeble, but she is not to be despised? She may be old and feeble, but she is not to be despised? She may be old and feeble, but she is not to be despised? She may be old and feeble, but she is not to be despised?

She loved you all your life, and reared you from a babe? She loved you all your life, and reared you from a babe? She loved you all your life, and reared you from a babe? She loved you all your life, and reared you from a babe?

When you will never know your mother's care until she is no more? When you will never know your mother's care until she is no more? When you will never know your mother's care until she is no more? When you will never know your mother's care until she is no more?

Always try to cheer her and keep her from being lonely? Always try to cheer her and keep her from being lonely? Always try to cheer her and keep her from being lonely? Always try to cheer her and keep her from being lonely?

Remember that she reared you as the earth and sun may rear to love some one that is fond and true? Remember that she reared you as the earth and sun may rear to love some one that is fond and true? Remember that she reared you as the earth and sun may rear to love some one that is fond and true?

But you never can love as your mother loved you? But you never can love as your mother loved you? But you never can love as your mother loved you? But you never can love as your mother loved you?

THE FAMILY.

BLACKWELL. In loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, LAURENCE W. BLACKWELL, who died eleven years ago today, April 3, 1910.

The darling mother who is waiting. The darling mother who is waiting. The darling mother who is waiting. The darling mother who is waiting.

HER DEVOTED MOTHER AND BROTHER.

BURRIS. In sad but loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, ALBERT C. BURRIS, who died eleven years ago today, April 3, 1910.

When you will never know your mother's care until she is no more? When you will never know your mother's care until she is no more? When you will never know your mother's care until she is no more? When you will never know your mother's care until she is no more?

Always try to cheer her and keep her from being lonely? Always try to cheer her and keep her from being lonely? Always try to cheer her and keep her from being lonely? Always try to cheer her and keep her from being lonely?

Remember that she reared you as the earth and sun may rear to love some one that is fond and true? Remember that she reared you as the earth and sun may rear to love some one that is fond and true? Remember that she reared you as the earth and sun may rear to love some one that is fond and true?
